As managers of this contract, Morin and Mulloy will be responsible for overseeing a staff of more than 130 people as they work to improve safety and reduce risk in the National Airspace System.

“Elaine and Steve have a broad range of complementary skills, capabilities and experience that will allow them to be great leaders on this contract,” said Mary McMillan, vice president of CSSI’s Safety and Environmental Services division. “They are a great fit for these positions and I have no doubt they are the best of the best to run CSSI’s second-largest contract to date.”
